

I remember everyday Anna Higgins and Heidi Holmes

I remember everyday depicts the convergence between existing in the present and remembering the past. Heidi Holmes records, documents and catalogues the everydayness of her life to create work that represents the present. In contrast, Anna Higgins makes work that visualises ambiguous memories that overtake the present experience, leaving residues that undermine the everyday.

> George Paton Gallery

Archive 2011
2/2: 9-19 August