

(in silent mode)

Greg Penn
17-27 March

Our balance seems out of step. Our continual acceleration makes us seldom appreciate the slow. Through actions and relations that engage both mind & body with that of environment, I aim to draw reflection upon different levels of awareness, which all adhere to the importance of resisting acceleration and appreciating the slow.